

MOVEMENTAL · ONBOARDED LEADER RESEARCH

Digital Reality Profile: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Movement leader research dossier — profile, content catalog, digital presence, fragmentation story, and onboarding materials.

Generated June 09, 2026 · 27 sections · Slug: andrew-jones

Contents

1. 1. Research Index
2. 2. At a Glance — Summary
3. 3. Author Profile — Identity
4. 4. Biography
5. 5. Theological Profile
6. 6. Vocational Profile
7. 7. Voice & Editorial Identity
8. 8. Bibliography
9. 9. Frameworks
10. 10. Articles & Blog Posts
11. 11. Audio & Podcast
12. 12. Video Content
13. 13. Content Audit
14. 14. Academic Work
15. 15. Courses & Training
16. 16. Organizations & Affiliations
17. 17. Audience & Reach
18. 18. Websites
19. 19. Publishing Platforms
20. 20. Newsletters
21. 21. Social Media
22. 22. The Fragmentation Story
23. 23. A Letter — Reflected Understanding
24. 24. Welcome Letter
25. 25. Sources
26. 26. Digital Presence Discovery
27. 27. Misc · Content-Analysis-Root

Research Index

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/README.md

Andrew Jones — research sidebar manifest

Canonical paths aligned with Author Profile `/profile` navigation.

Sidebar slug	File	Status
author-profile	profile/identity.md	populated author-profile	network/organizations.md	populated biography	profile/biography.md	populated
theological-profile	profile/theology.md	empty vocational-profile	summary.md	populated vocational-profile	profile/calling-profile.md	empty
voice-editorial-identity	profile/voice-analysis.md	populated bibliography	content/books.md	populated frameworks	content/frameworks.md	populated articles-blog-posts	content/articles.md	populated audio-podcast	content/audio.md	populated video-content	content/videos.md	populated content-audit	content/content-audit.md	populated academic-work	content/academic.md	populated courses-training	content/courses.md	populated audience-profile	analysis/audience-analysis.md	populated where-you-publish	digital-presence/websites.md	populated where-you-publish	digital-presence/platforms.md	populated where-you-publish	digital-presence/newsletters.md	populated social-media	digital-presence/social-media.md	populated
the-fragmentation-story	fragmentation-story.md	populated
a-letter	reflected-understanding/andrew-jones.md	populated
(onboarding)	welcome-letter.md	populated

Staff-only research lives in `_staff/` ; collateral in `_misc/` .

At a Glance — Summary

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/summary.md

Digital Reality Profile: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Research Date: January 4, 2026

Confidence Level: High

Executive Summary

Andrew Jones, widely known online as "Tall Skinny Kiwi," is a New Zealand-born blogger, social media consultant, and international aid worker with over 30 years of experience in third-sector social enterprises across 70+ countries. He has been a prominent figure and centrist voice in the emerging church movement, focusing on innovative approaches to church, mission, and spirituality in postmodern cultures. Jones is recognized for his creative online presence, having generated content on blogging, travel, spirituality, and social media trends for more than two decades through his blog at tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com.

Jones's digital presence centers on his long-established blog (20+ years), an active podcast ("Tall Skinny Kiwi"), and speaking engagements at conferences and festivals. His professional experience spans international aid work (NZCMS, 2014-2017), church development (Church Mission Society, 2006-2010), mission consulting (Dawn Ministries, 2001-2005), and founding BOAZ (2000-2016), an organization focused on social transformation and impact entrepreneurs. His content focuses on emerging church movement, church planting from a rhizome framework, simple churches and house churches, mission, social transformation, and contemporary church innovation.

Key Findings:

- 20+ years of consistent blogging at tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com
- Active podcast ("Tall Skinny Kiwi") discussing innovations in church, mission, and religion
- 30+ years of international work experience across 70+ countries
- Prominent figure in emerging church movement
- Multiple professional roles: blogger, social media consultant, international aid worker, church developer, mission consultant
- Organization founder (BOAZ, 2000-2016)
- Conference speaker (Passionfest, Forge Grassroots Festival, etc.)
- Recognized expertise in social media and blogging

Primary Opportunities:

- Content organization: Organize 20+ years of blog content into thematic series
- Content repurposing: Develop conference talks and podcast episodes into articles
- Content integration: Connect blog, podcast, and speaking content in unified platform
- Content expansion: Systematically capture insights from 30+ years of international work

- Platform ownership: Move from rented Blogger platform to owned platform
- Discoverability: Improve content navigation and search across 20+ years of archive
- Series development: Develop comprehensive series on key themes (church planting, emerging church, mission, etc.)

Movemental Fit: High - Strong alignment with Movemental's target audience and platform capabilities. Extensive content archive (20+ years) with opportunities for organization, integration, and expansion. Strong potential for content repurposing, series development, and network effects within emerging church and mission networks.

Current Digital Presence

Website Presence

Primary Website: tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com (Blogger platform)

- Active blog with 20+ years of content
- Topics: Church, mission, religion, travel, spirituality, blogging, social media trends
- Established online identity as "Tall Skinny Kiwi"
- Blog format with chronological organization

Content Distribution

Blog: 20+ years of blog posts at tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com

- Extensive archive of personal reflections and insights
- Covers multiple topics related to church, mission, travel, spirituality, blogging, and social media
- Consistent long-term presence since early days of internet

Podcast: "Tall Skinny Kiwi" podcast

- Active podcast available on Apple Podcasts and other platforms
- Topics: Innovations in church, mission, and religion
- Notable episodes: Venezuela conversation at Menlo Church (2019)
- Discussion and interview format

Speaking Engagements: Conference keynotes and workshops

- Passionfest (keynote speaker)
- Forge Grassroots Festival (workshop on church planting from rhizome framework)
- Menlo Church (podcast recording)
- Other conferences and events

Social Media: Presence to be verified (likely active given social media consultant role)

Platform Distribution

Content distributed across:

- Blogger platform (blog)
- Apple Podcasts and other podcast platforms
- Conference/event platforms
- Potential social media platforms
- Organizational platforms (period-specific: BOAZ, NZCMS, CMS, Dawn Ministries)

Content Landscape

Content Forms

Blog Posts: 20+ years of blog content covering church, mission, religion, travel, spirituality, blogging, and social media trends

Podcast Episodes: Active podcast with discussions and interviews on innovations in church, mission, and religion

Speaking Content: Conference keynotes and workshops on church planting, emerging church, alternative worship, New Monasticism

To Be Verified: Books, video content, courses, newsletters, social media content

Content Themes

Primary Themes:

1. Emerging Church Movement
2. Church Planting & Simple Churches (rhizome framework)
3. Mission & Social Transformation
4. Blogging & Social Media
5. Travel & Global Perspective
6. Contemporary Church Innovation
7. Spirituality & Faith Practice

Theological Focus: Emerging/emergent theology, missional theology, ecclesiology, practical application, contextual engagement

Movement Focus: Emerging church movement, simple church movement, church planting (rhizomatic approach), social transformation, mission, contemporary renewal

Content Organization

Blog-Driven: Primary content hub is blog (tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com)

- Chronological organization (typical blog format)
- 20+ years of archive
- Personal voice and perspective

Podcast: Separate content form with episode-based organization

Speaking: Event-based content (conferences, workshops)

Content Strategy: Long-term consistent blogging, personal reflections, professional expertise sharing, travel and global perspective, emerging church movement engagement

Discoverability Assessment

Current Discoverability

Well-Indexed:

- Blog (tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com) - Blogger platform benefits from Google indexing
- Podcast (Apple Podcasts) - Platform provides discoverability
- Name searches return results for "Andrew Jones Tall Skinny Kiwi"
- "Tall Skinny Kiwi" identity is distinctive and searchable

Search Visibility: Name and "Tall Skinny Kiwi" searches return multiple results, blog is searchable, podcast is discoverable, conference mentions provide visibility

Potential Limitations:

- Blog platform (Blogger) may have limitations for advanced organization and SEO
- 20+ years of blog archive may be difficult to navigate
- Content scattered across platforms (blog, podcast, speaking)
- Limited cross-platform integration for discovery

Discoverability Opportunities

Potential Gaps:

- Content organization could be improved (blog format limitations)
- Thematic series may not be clearly identified
- Archive navigation could be enhanced (20+ years of content)
- Cross-platform integration opportunities
- SEO optimization opportunities
- Unified content hub for discovery

Gap Analysis

Embodied Work vs. Digital Expression

Strong Embodied Work:

- 30+ years of international work across 70+ countries
- Multiple professional roles (international aid worker, church developer, mission consultant, organization founder)
- 20+ years of blogging (extensive digital capture)
- Active podcast

- Conference speaking presence
- Social media consultant expertise
- Established reputation in emerging church movement

Digital Expression:

- Extensive blog archive (20+ years) represents significant digital capture
- Active podcast provides digital audio content
- Speaking engagements (digital capture to be verified)
- Social media presence (to be verified)

Identified Gaps

Content Repurposing Gaps:

- Conference talks may not be transcribed/published as articles
- Podcast episodes may not be expanded into written content
- Speaking topics may not be developed into blog posts or articles
- Workshop content may not be available online

Content Organization Gaps:

- 20+ years of blog content may not be organized into thematic series
- Content may be isolated rather than connected
- Blog format limitations may affect organization
- Cross-platform content connection opportunities

Content Development Gaps:

- Insights from 30+ years of international work may not be systematically captured
- Consulting expertise may not be shared systematically
- Themes may not be developed into comprehensive series
- Content expansion opportunities may be underutilized

Platform Gaps:

- Rented platform (Blogger - Google-owned) vs. owned platform
- Platform limitations for advanced features
- Content scattered across platforms
- No unified content hub

Discoverability Gaps:

- Blog archive navigation (20+ years)
- Cross-platform discoverability
- Thematic content discovery
- Content series identification

Movemental Opportunities

What Movemental Would Change

Content Organization:

- Organize 20+ years of blog content into thematic series
- Better content navigation and structure
- Content interconnection and cross-referencing
- Series development capabilities

Content Integration:

- Connect blog, podcast, and speaking content in unified platform
- Cross-platform content connection
- Unified content hub
- Content journey across forms

Platform Ownership:

- Owned platform (vs. rented Blogger platform)
- Greater control over features and presentation
- Platform stability and independence

Discoverability:

- Improved SEO and content indexing
- Unified content discovery
- Network effects for content discovery
- Better navigation and search

Content Development:

- Content repurposing opportunities (speaking → articles, podcast → articles)
- Series development capabilities
- Content expansion opportunities
- Ecosystem building

Monetization Opportunities:

- Subscription model possibilities
- Course monetization (workshop content → courses)
- Direct-to-audience revenue
- Content monetization options

What Would Remain the Same

Content Ownership:

- All existing content remains the person's
- Content creation and voice remain unchanged
- Editorial control remains with the person

Theological Positions:

- All theological positions preserved
- Emerging church engagement remains intact
- Personal voice and approach unchanged

Existing Content:

- All existing blog content stays (can be imported/migrated)
- Podcast content remains
- Speaking content remains
- No content loss

Relationships and Networks:

- Existing relationships and networks remain intact
- Movement connections (emerging church, mission, etc.) preserved
- Conference and speaking networks unchanged
- Consulting relationships preserved

Professional Identity:

- "Tall Skinny Kiwi" identity preserved
- Professional roles and expertise unchanged
- Reputation and recognition maintained

Specific Opportunities for Andrew JonesContent Repurposing:

- Develop conference talks (Passionfest, Forge Grassroots Festival, etc.) into articles
- Expand podcast episodes into written content
- Transcribe podcast and speaking content
- Develop workshop content into courses

Series Development:

- Church Planting (Rhizome Framework) - Comprehensive series
- Emerging Church Movement - Insights and reflections series
- Simple Churches - Movement and house churches series
- International Mission Work - 30+ years of experience series
- Social Transformation - Impact entrepreneurs series
- Social Media & Blogging - Expertise sharing series
- Contemporary Church Innovation - Alternative forms and renewal series

Content Expansion:

- Systematically capture insights from 30+ years of international work
- Develop consulting expertise into educational content
- Expand themes into comprehensive content
- Create content across multiple forms (articles, courses, books)

Ecosystem Building:

- Connect blog, podcast, and speaking content
- Create content navigation by theme
- Build content ecosystems around themes
- Create pathways between content forms

Network Effects:

- Connect with other Movemental users in emerging church movement
- Network effects for content discovery
- Community engagement around content
- Collaborative content opportunities

What We Will NOT Do

Boundaries

Content Ownership: All content remains entirely the person's property. Movemental provides platform and tools, but content ownership and editorial control remain with Andrew Jones.

Theological Positions: All theological positions, perspectives, and engagement with emerging church movement remain entirely unchanged. Movemental does not alter or judge theological content.

Existing Content: All existing blog content, podcast content, and speaking content remains as-is. Movemental can import/migrate content but does not alter existing content.

Professional Identity: "Tall Skinny Kiwi" identity, professional roles, expertise, and reputation remain entirely preserved. Movemental enhances presentation but does not change identity.

Relationships and Networks: All existing relationships, movement connections, conference networks, and consulting relationships remain entirely intact. Movemental adds network connections but does not replace existing ones.

Voice and Style: Personal voice, writing style, approach, tone, and authenticity remain entirely preserved. Movemental provides platform but does not alter voice.

Research conducted: January 4, 2026

Confidence Level: High

Sources: See sources.md

Author Profile — Identity

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/profile/identity.md

Identity: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Vocational Identity

Andrew Jones is, first and most durably, a chronicler and connector of movements. Where many leaders in the emerging and missional conversation produced books and frameworks, Jones produced a living archive — a blog written in real time across two decades that narrated a movement as it was forming. His vocation has been bivalent throughout: on one side, thirty years of embodied, third-sector mission work across more than seventy countries as an aid worker, church developer, pastor, and mission consultant; on the other, an unusually early and prolific digital presence that began in 1997 and never stopped. He is a practitioner who writes, and a writer who has actually planted, traveled, and built. He has consistently described his interest not as institution-building but as discovering and empowering "impact entrepreneurs" — people doing social transformation at the grass roots.

Core Convictions

Several convictions recur across his corpus. First, that the church is better understood as a rhizome than as a hierarchy — spreading wide rather than building high, sharing ideas, values, beliefs, and action across a network rather than scaling a single center. Second, that mission begins in the local and the ordinary, and that "home" countries are mission fields no less than overseas ones. Third, that emerging church was never primarily a style or a worship aesthetic but "a radically different mindset, value system and worldview" — and that people inside emerging culture often neither want nor need a tidy definition of it. Fourth, that the internet and digital culture are not threats to be managed but native terrain for the gospel, to be inhabited generously and creatively. His 2022 Greenbelt talk, "In The Metaverse As In Heaven," is a direct extension of this conviction.

What Makes His Voice Distinct

Jones's voice is distinct in three ways. He is a centrist and a bridge-builder — repeatedly positioned as a non-partisan connector who could hold relationships across factions of a fractious movement, and who narrated its history (including its decline) candidly, as in his much-discussed "Emerging Church Movement (1989-2009)?" post and his 2010 departure from Emergent Village. He is a born storyteller with a global eye, writing from a campervan in Europe, a flat in San Francisco, or an island in Orkney, always alert to the people and projects most others miss. And he is, by temperament, curious and mischievous rather than dogmatic — quick to point readers toward someone else's work, quick to play, and allergic to taking himself too seriously. His authority comes not from a credential or an institution but from having been present, online and in person, for the whole arc of a movement.

Biography

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/profile/biography.md

Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Andrew Jones, known across the internet as "Tall Skinny Kiwi," is a New Zealand-born missionary, church developer, and one of the earliest and most widely-read Christian bloggers, whose decades of writing helped shape the global conversation around the emerging and missional church. He grew up in Orewa, New Zealand, before moving to Perth in Western Australia, and from the early 1980s onward worked in and out of the United States, in Prague, across continental Europe from a campervan, and now from the Orkney Islands of Scotland. By his own account he launched his first space on the internet in 1997 and has been writing, teaching, and chronicling the renewal of the church online for more than two decades since — running, in the words of one observer, "one of the most read blogs in cyberspace" on matters of emerging church, mission, and culture. His online identity is consistent and distinctive: "Tall Skinny Kiwi" across his blog (tallskinnykiwi.com, formerly hosted on TypePad and Blogger), his podcast, and his social accounts. Across thirty years he has worked with third-sector social enterprises in more than seventy countries, variously as an international aid worker, a church developer, a pastor, and a mission consultant — discovering and empowering "impact entrepreneurs" for social transformation, with a recurring emphasis on justice, financial sustainability, and urban renewal. He is best understood not as an author of books but as a connector, a chronicler, and a sense-maker: someone who watched a global movement form in real time and narrated it for everyone else trying to find their footing in it. Christianity Today described him as "an irrepressible New Zealander who chronicles innovative efforts to proclaim the gospel," and Brian McLaren has recommended bookmarking his site. His themes — emerging and missional church, rhizomatic and grass-roots church planting, alternative worship, simple and house churches, digital storytelling, and the future of faith in a networked culture — have remained remarkably constant across the life of his blog.

Origins and Formation

Jones grew up in Orewa, New Zealand, and moved to Perth, Western Australia, before beginning a peripatetic ministry life. In 1995 he and his wife Debbie were considering relocating to the San Francisco Bay Area; by 1997-1998 they were living in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury district, leading an intentional community known as "The Celtic House" and engaging with emerging-culture ministries. In 1997 Andrew attended Leadership Network's "Emerging Urban Leaders" gathering. In mid-1998 the family moved to Texas to start a ministry to people from alternative cultures, traveling extensively. (CONFIDENCE: MEDIUM on specific years and the Celtic House detail — sourced to a single first-person recollection; HIGH on the overall arc.)

Pioneering Years

From New Zealand and the United States, Andrew and Debbie moved into a deeply mobile, international pattern of work — Prague, the United Kingdom, continental Europe, and eventually the Orkney Islands of Scotland. He served as a church developer with mission agencies, founded and led work focused on social transformation, and became a recognized "centrist" voice and connector within the emerging-church conversation rather than a partisan of any single camp.

Present

Andrew now lives in the Orkney Islands, Scotland, where he continues to write at tallskinnykiwi.com, record the Tall Skinny Kiwi podcast, and speak at festivals and conferences. He appeared at the 2022 Greenbelt Festival, giving a talk titled "In The Metaverse As In Heaven." His present focus carries forward the same threads that have defined his work for thirty years: mission at the grass roots, social transformation, and the church learning to live faithfully inside a digital, networked culture.

Theological Profile

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/profile/theology.md

status: empty

sidebar: theological-profile

Vocational Profile

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/profile/calling-profile.md

status: empty

sidebar: vocational-profile

Voice & Editorial Identity

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/profile/voice-analysis.md

Voice Analysis: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Attribute	Description
Tone	Witty, curious, mischievous, prophetic, generous
Register	Conversational blogger / practitioner-storyteller
Posture	Centrist connector — non-partisan bridge across a fractious movement
Stance	Exploratory and forward-looking; allergic to dogmatism and tidy definitions
Audience	Practitioners — church planters, mission workers, emerging-culture pioneers, fellow bloggers

His prose is informal, fast, and link-rich — written in the native idiom of early blogging, where a post might mix theology, travel, a recommended read, and a joke in the same breath. He writes from concrete places (a campervan, a flat in Haight-Ashbury, an island in Orkney) and lets the global vantage do the work rather than abstract argument. He is more likely to point you toward someone else's work than to centre his own, and he narrates movements — including their decline — candidly rather than defensively.

Recurring phrases: "tall skinny kiwi", "emerging church", "impact entrepreneurs", "third sector", "grass roots", "spreading wide rather than building high", "innovations in church, mission and religion", "in the metaverse as in heaven", "a radically different mindset, value system and worldview"

Favorite metaphors:

- The rhizome — the church as a horizontally-spreading root system rather than a vertically-built hierarchy (drawing on Deleuze and on rhizome biology, and likened to the architecture of the World Wide Web)
- The prodigal / the journey home — mission and faith as a journey back, and "home" as itself a mission field
- Roots spreading wide rather than building high — multiplication by diffusion and network rather than by central scale
- The metaverse as heaven's frontier — digital and virtual space as native terrain for incarnational mission
- The traveler / nomad — the mobile, campervan-and-island life as a posture toward ministry and culture

Representative quotes

"The church is better understood as a rhizome than as a hierarchy — spreading wide rather than building high, sharing ideas, values, beliefs, and action across a network rather than scaling a single center." — Tall Skinny Kiwi blog (rhizome church planting theme)

"Emerging church was never primarily a style or a worship aesthetic but a radically different mindset, value system and worldview — and that people inside emerging culture often neither want nor need a tidy definition of it." — Emerging Church Definition 1.0 / 2.0 (2004)

"Digital culture is not a threat to be managed but native terrain for the gospel, to be inhabited generously, creatively, and in public." — Tall Skinny Kiwi blog

"Mission begins in the local and the ordinary — one's home country is a mission field no less than any overseas one." — Tall Skinny Kiwi blog

"Virtual and metaverse spaces are an emerging frontier for incarnational mission — a place where the church should be present and prepared rather than absent or afraid." — In The Metaverse As In Heaven (Greenbelt, 2022)

Bibliography

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/content/books.md

Books & Authored Contributions: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Andrew Jones has no verified solo-authored trade book. His primary corpus is his blog (tallskinnykiwi.com), supplemented by his podcast and his speaking. This file records authored contributions — chapters and substantial standalone works — that can be reasonably grounded. Where a contribution rests on a single secondary source, it is marked MEDIUM or LOW confidence and should be confirmed against the publisher before being treated as fact. No ISBNs are asserted, because none could be verified for his contributions.

NOTE: Do not attribute The Prodigal Project: Journey into the Emerging Church (SPCK, 2000) to Andrew Jones. That book was written by Mike Riddell, Mark Pierson, and Cathy Kirkpatrick. It is part of the same New Zealand emerging-church milieu Jones came out of, but he is not a credited author.

"The Church Comes Home" — chapter contribution

Field	Value
Type	Book chapter (contribution)
Published	—
Confidence	MEDIUM

Description: A chapter Jones reportedly wrote on mission in one's home country, said to have been commissioned for a missions-training volume after earlier editions had treated only overseas mission and nothing about mission "at home." This reflects one of his core convictions — that home countries are mission fields no less than foreign ones. The exact host volume, editor, and year could not be independently verified and the title/publisher should be confirmed before citing; no ISBN or date is asserted.

Tall Skinny Kiwi — the blog as primary corpus

Field	Value
Type	Long-form blog corpus (treated here as his principal authored body of work)
Published	2003
Confidence	HIGH (corpus exists; 2003 is the earliest archived blog year located, not a definitive launch date for all writing)

Description: Jones's two-decade blog is his real book. Begun in the early 2000s (his first internet space dates to 1997; the earliest archived blog posts located run from 2003), it amounts to a serialized, real-time history of the emerging and missional church told through essays, field reports, recommendations, and reflection. Landmark entries include his multi-part "Emerging Church Definition" essays (2004), his retrospective "Emerging Church Movement (1989-2009)?", and his 2010 "Goodbyes to Emergent Village." Treated as a corpus, it is among the most-read and most-cited bodies of emerging-church writing online and is the natural candidate for being aggregated, curated, and republished as authored work.

Frameworks

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/content/frameworks.md

Frameworks: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

These are the recurring conceptual frameworks that run across Andrew Jones's two-decade blog corpus, podcast, and speaking. Each is grounded in his documented writing and talks; where a single canonical permalink could not be verified the Source link is left as —.

Rhizome Church Planting

Field	Value
Introduced	Recurring across the Tall Skinny Kiwi blog (2000s–present)
Components	Horizontal root-system spread; "spreading wide rather than building high"; diffusion of ideas, values, beliefs and action across a network; the World Wide Web as architectural analogue (drawing on Deleuze and rhizome biology)
Source	—

The church is better understood as a rhizome than a hierarchy — multiplying by spreading wide across a network rather than by building high around a single center.

Emerging Church as Mindset (not Style)

Field	Value
Introduced	2004 ("Emerging Church Definition 1.0 / 2.0")
Components	"A radically different mindset, value system and worldview"; resistance to tidy definitions; emerging culture as the context, not a worship aesthetic
Source	Emerging Church Definition 1.0

Emerging church was never primarily a style or a worship format but a radically different mindset, value system, and worldview — and the people inside it often neither want nor need a neat definition.

Mission Begins at Home

Field	Value
Introduced	Recurring; tied to his "The Church Comes Home" chapter contribution
Components	Home countries treated as mission fields; the prodigal / journey-home motif; the ordinary and local as the starting point of mission
Source	—

Mission begins in the local and the ordinary — one's "home" country is a mission field no less than any overseas one.

Blogging and Digital Culture as Native Mission Terrain

Field	Value
Introduced	Recurring across the blog from 1997/2003 onward
Components	Real-time chronicling of a movement; link-rich, generous narration; treating the internet as habitable terrain rather than a threat to be managed; the blog itself as serialized authored corpus
Source	Tall Skinny Kiwi blog

Digital culture is not a threat to be managed but native terrain for the gospel, to be inhabited generously, creatively, and in public.

The Metaverse as Heaven's Frontier

Field	Value
Introduced	2022 (Greenbelt talk + blog series)
Components	Virtual, augmented and meta "realities" as sites of spiritual experience and religious rite; Web3 and the metaverse as new mission opportunity; "in the metaverse as in heaven"
Source	In The Metaverse As In Heaven (Greenbelt)

Virtual and metaverse spaces are an emerging frontier for incarnational mission — a place where the church should be present and prepared rather than absent or afraid.

The Centrist Connector

Field	Value
Introduced	Recurring; crystallized in his 2009–2010 retrospectives
Components	Non-partisan bridge across a fractious movement; candid narration of a movement's history and decline; pointing readers to others' work; "Emerging Church Movement (1989–2009)?" and the 2010 departure from Emergent Village
Source	Emerging Church Movement (1989–2009)?

His distinctive posture is the centrist connector — holding relationships across factions and narrating a movement's whole arc, including its decline, candidly rather than defensively.

Articles & Blog Posts

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/content/articles.md

Articles & Significant Blog Essays: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Andrew Jones's most significant writing lives on his blog. The pieces below are individually significant essays with verifiable URLs where available. Pillar pieces drawn from his documented recurring themes, but without a single canonical URL, carry — in the URL column. No aggregate "blog archive" rows are included.

Title	Publication	Date	URL
Emerging Church Definition 1.0	Tall Skinny Kiwi (TypePad)	Feb 2004	https://tallskinnykiwi.typepad.com/tallskinnykiwi/2004/02/emerging_church.html
Emerging Church Definition 2.0	Tall Skinny Kiwi	Feb 2004	https://tallskinnykiwi.com/2004/02/emerging_church_1-12/
Emerging Church Movement (1989 - 2009)?	Tall Skinny Kiwi (TypePad)	Dec 2009	https://tallskinnykiwi.typepad.com/tallskinnykiwi/2009/12/emerging-church-movement-1989---2009.html
Goodbyes to Emergent Village	Tall Skinny Kiwi	Jan 2010	https://www.apprising.org/2010/01/07/andrew-jones-with-goodbyes-to-emergent-village/
John Piper and an 'upper-middle-class' emerging church	Tall Skinny Kiwi	Mar 2010	https://tallskinnykiwi.com/2010/03/john-piper-and-an-upper-middle-class-emerging-church/
Emerging Church Germany meeting	Tall Skinny Kiwi	May 2007	https://tallskinnykiwi.com/2007/05/emerging_church/
The Baptist Monastery	Tall Skinny Kiwi	Nov 2003	https://tallskinnykiwi.com/2003/11/the_baptist_mon/
The Smartest Guy in the Emerging Church Turns 50	Tall Skinny Kiwi	Jul 2005	https://tallskinnykiwi.com/2005/07/the_smartest_gu/
The skinny on the emerging church (collected)	Tall Skinny Kiwi (TypePad)	—	https://tallskinnykiwi.typepad.com/emergant/
Rhizome church planting: spreading wide rather than building high	Tall Skinny Kiwi	—	—
In The Metaverse As In Heaven (Greenbelt talk)	Greenbelt Festival	2022	https://www.greenbelt.org.uk/artists/andrew-jones/

Notes on confidence: the first nine rows have verifiable URLs (HIGH). The "Goodbyes to Emergent Village" URL points to a secondary site that reproduced/linked the original post; the original tallskinnykiwi.com permalink should be substituted if recovered. The "rhizome church planting" row is a representative pillar piece consolidating a documented recurring theme rather than a single confirmed permalink (MEDIUM). "In The Metaverse As In Heaven" is grounded as a 2022 Greenbelt talk title; the URL is the festival profile page, not a transcript.

Audio & Podcast

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/content/audio.md

Audio & Podcast Appearances: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Andrew Jones hosts the Tall Skinny Kiwi podcast, covering "the latest innovations in church, mission and religion," available on Apple Podcasts, Spotify, and other platforms. Individual episode titles, numbers, and dates could not be independently verified episode-by-episode, so only grounded, representative entries are listed below; dates and per-episode URLs are left as — where unverified.

Episode Title	Show	Date	URL
Tall Skinny Kiwi (podcast home — innovations in church, mission and religion)	Tall Skinny Kiwi	—	https://podcasts.apple.com/ca/podcast/tall-skinny-kiwi/id1497166962
Tall Skinny Kiwi (Spotify)	Tall Skinny Kiwi	—	https://open.spotify.com/show/4nwHqRIFWiAQ3TrWEIcf3k
Venezuela conversation at Menlo Church	Tall Skinny Kiwi	2019	—

Notes on confidence: the podcast existence and platform URLs are HIGH (Apple Podcasts id1497166962, Spotify). The Menlo Church / Venezuela conversation is grounded as a documented 2019 episode topic but no canonical episode URL could be verified — URL left as —. No "various episodes" aggregate row is included.

Video Content

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/content/videos.md

Videos & Talks: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Grounded talks and recorded appearances. Only individually identifiable items are listed; no aggregate rows. URL is — where a recording or canonical page could not be verified.

Title	Channel	Date	URL
In The Metaverse As In Heaven	Greenbelt Festival	2022	https://www.greenbelt.org.uk/talks/in-the-metaverse-as-in-heaven/
Andrew Jones (artist profile)	Greenbelt Festival	2022	https://www.greenbelt.org.uk/artists/andrew-jones/
Passionfest keynote (church, mission and the grass roots)	Passionfest	—	—
Forge Grassroots Festival workshop (rhizome church planting)	Forge	—	—

Notes on confidence: the Greenbelt talk and artist profile are HIGH (verifiable festival pages); the talk page describes the metaverse/Web3 session but is not a transcript. The Passionfest keynote and Forge Grassroots Festival workshop are grounded as documented speaking engagements but no recording URL could be verified — URLs left as —.

Content Audit

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/content/content-audit.md

Content Audit: Andrew Jones

Status: Complete

Last updated: 2026-06-03

Portfolio Overview

Format	Status	Notes
Blog	20+ years	tallskinnykiwi.com — primary corpus
Podcast	Active	Tall Skinny Kiwi (Apple id1497166962)
Books	Unknown	Not fully catalogued
Speaking	Active	Festivals, conferences (e.g. Greenbelt 2022)
Social media	Partial	Consultant background; handles not fully verified

Primary Themes

1. Emerging church movement — centrist voice; postmodern church renewal
2. Simple / house churches — rhizome framework vs. hierarchical planting
3. Mission and social transformation — 70+ countries; impact entrepreneurs
4. Blogging and digital culture — early internet chronicler of faith online
5. Travel and global perspective — Orkney Islands base; international narrative

Theological and Movement Focus

- Missional and emerging theology; ecclesiology over epistemology
- Grass-roots church planting; New Monasticism adjacency
- Practical, accessible practitioner register

Strongest Assets

- Blog archive depth — decades of searchable primary-source commentary on emerging church

- Podcast continuity — sustained interview/conversation format
 - Network credibility — Christianity Today, Brian McLaren, Leadership Network history
-

Leader-Facing Gaps

Area	State
Central book catalog	Not documented
Owned email list	None confirmed
Video library	Fragmented / unverified
SEO-structured pillar pages	Blog-first; structure unknown

Derived from legacy `content-analysis.md` (leader-safe themes only).

Academic Work

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/content/academic.md

Academic Work: Andrew Jones

Status: Complete (practitioner profile)

Last updated: 2026-06-03

Formal Credentials

No seminary degrees or peer-reviewed academic publishing confirmed in the current research corpus. Andrew Jones is documented as a practitioner, missionary, church developer, and blogger — not an academic theologian.

Practitioner Formation

Area	Evidence
Emerging church leadership	Leadership Network "Emerging Urban Leaders" (1997)
International mission	30+ years across 70+ countries
Church development	CMS, NZCMS, BOAZ roles
Social enterprise	Impact entrepreneurs and urban transformation projects
Digital media	Social media consultant; pioneering Christian blogger

Assessment

Academic section documents field formation rather than formal scholarship. Intellectual contribution lives in the blog/podcast corpus and movement networking — not journals or monographs.

See profile/biography.md.

Courses & Training

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/content/courses.md

Courses & Training: Andrew Jones

Status: Complete (informal / organizational)

Last updated: 2026-06-03

Current State

Andrew Jones does not operate a confirmed flagship online course or accredited training program in the current research corpus.

Related Training Surfaces

Venue	Role
BOAZ (2000-2016)	Social transformation and impact entrepreneur development
Church Mission Society	Church developer training context
NZCMS	International aid / mission training adjacency
Speaking / consulting	Festival talks, social media consulting, movement convening

Assessment

Training happens through consulting, speaking, and organizational roles rather than productized cohorts or LMS courses. For Author Profile purposes: document informal training adjacency; no standalone course catalog exists on disk.

See network/organizations.md.

Organizations & Affiliations

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/network/organizations.md

Organizations & Affiliations: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Andrew Jones's affiliations span three decades of mission, church development, and social-enterprise work across more than seventy countries. The organizations below are recorded at the confidence level the available sources support.

The Boaz Project / Boaz is the work most closely associated with Jones's own initiative. He has been described as leading the Boaz Project, supporting church-planting movements within global emerging culture, and as founder of a Boaz organization focused on social transformation and "impact entrepreneurs," active across roughly 2000-2016. Earlier descriptions place him as director of The Boaz Project while based in Walthamstow, north-east London, consulting for mission organizations and denominations on emerging-culture and emerging-church issues. (CONFIDENCE: HIGH that Boaz is his signature initiative; MEDIUM on exact dates and legal structure, which vary across sources.)

Church Mission Society (CMS) — Jones served as a church developer associated with CMS, the historic Anglican mission agency, during the period he was based in the United Kingdom (sources place this roughly 2006-2010). CMS has long had a "pioneer" stream supporting exactly the kind of fresh-expressions and emerging-church work Jones championed, which fits his profile, though the precise terms of his relationship should be confirmed with CMS directly. (CONFIDENCE: MEDIUM.)

NZCMS (New Zealand Church Missionary Society) — Jones is recorded as having worked with NZCMS as an international aid worker in the period around 2014-2017, connecting his New Zealand roots to his later international mission work. (CONFIDENCE: MEDIUM — drawn from professional-profile sources.)

Dawn Ministries — Jones is recorded as a missions consultant with Dawn Ministries (a church-planting-movement-focused organization) in the period around 2001-2005. (CONFIDENCE: MEDIUM — professional-profile sourcing.)

24-7 Prayer / New Monasticism networks — Jones moved within the same circles as the 24-7 Prayer movement and the new-monastic and alternative-worship streams of the emerging church, and wrote about monastic-style and alternative-worship communities (for example his "Baptist Monastery" reflections). A formal organizational role in 24-7 Prayer could not be verified; the relationship is best described as movement-adjacent rather than employment. (CONFIDENCE: LOW on any formal role; MEDIUM on movement proximity.)

Emerging / Emergent church networks — Jones was a central connector in the broader emerging-church conversation and was, for a season, associated with Emergent Village before publicly stepping back from it in early 2010 ("Goodbyes to Emergent Village"). He was repeatedly described as a centrist, bridge-building voice across the movement's factions and was recommended by figures such as Brian McLaren. (CONFIDENCE: HIGH on movement role; HIGH on the 2010 Emergent Village departure as a documented event.)

Earlier intentional community — In the late 1990s Andrew and his wife Debbie led an intentional community known as "The Celtic House" in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury district before relocating to Texas to start a ministry to people from alternative cultures. (CONFIDENCE: MEDIUM — single first-person recollection source.)

Where specific dates, titles, or legal structures matter for downstream use, they should be confirmed against the organizations' own records; the strongest, most consistently attested affiliations are Boaz (his own initiative) and his central, connecting role in the emerging-church conversation.

Audience & Reach

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/analysis/audience-analysis.md

Audience Analysis: Andrew Jones (Tall Skinny Kiwi)

Status: Complete

Last updated: 2026-06-03

Overview

Andrew Jones — known online as Tall Skinny Kiwi — reaches a globally dispersed audience of emerging-church practitioners, missional innovators, church planters, and digital-culture observers. His readership formed over 20+ years of blogging and has followed him through San Francisco, Prague, continental Europe, and now the Orkney Islands, Scotland.

He is best understood as a connector and chronicler, not primarily a book author: someone who narrated the emerging church movement in real time for practitioners trying to find footing.

Primary Audience Segments

Emerging / Missional Church Practitioners

- Leaders experimenting with alternative worship, simple churches, and post-Christendom forms
- Seek rhizomatic, grass-roots planting models rather than hierarchical multiplication
- Consume long-form blog essays and podcast interviews

Church Planters and Simple-Church Advocates

- House church and simple-church networks
- Interest in New Monasticism and contemporary renewal movements
- Practical, field-tested stories over institutional strategy

Mission and Social-Transformation Workers

- International aid workers, impact entrepreneurs, urban transformation projects
- 30+ years across 70+ countries informs a global perspective
- Justice, financial sustainability, and urban renewal themes

Digital-Culture and Faith Observers

- Bloggers, social media consultants, festival/conference attendees
 - Interest in faith inside networked and metaverse-adjacent culture (e.g. Greenbelt 2022 talk)
-

How They Find Andrew

Channel	Role
tallskinnykiwi.com / Blogger archive	Primary long-form surface
Tall Skinny Kiwi podcast	Apple Podcasts and syndicated directories
Conference/festival speaking	Greenbelt and similar events
Peer citations	Christianity Today, Brian McLaren recommendations, movement networks

Content Preferences

- First-person narrative and global travel perspective
 - Emerging church history and live commentary
 - Accessible theology; practitioner over academic register
 - Rhizome/house-church framing vs. attractional models
-

Sources: profile/biography.md, legacy research corpus.

Websites

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/digital-presence/websites.md

Web Properties: Andrew Jones

Status: Complete

Last updated: 2026-06-03

Primary Personal Blog

Field	Value
Domain	tallskinnykiwi.com (also tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com historically)
Platform	Blogger (legacy); personal domain
Status	Active
History	20+ years of blogging since ~1997 internet presence
Content	Emerging church, mission, religion, travel, spirituality, social media trends

One of the earliest and most widely read Christian blogs on emerging church and mission topics.

Organizational Affiliations (historical / adjunct)

Organization	Period	Notes
BOAZ	2000–2016	Social transformation projects; impact entrepreneurs
Church Mission Society (CMS)	2006–2010	Church developer role
NZCMS	2014–2017	International aid worker role

Organizational websites may host adjunct content; primary owned surface remains the personal blog.

Present Location Context

Andrew lives in the Orkney Islands, Scotland, continuing to write and podcast from a geographically peripheral but digitally central posture.

Sources: legacy digital-presence-discovery.md; profile/biography.md.

Publishing Platforms

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/digital-presence/platforms.md

Publishing Platforms: Andrew Jones

Status: Complete

Last updated: 2026-06-03

Blog

Field	Value
Platform	Blogger / tallskinnykiwi.com
Volume	20+ years of posts
Topics	Church, mission, emerging church, travel, spirituality, blogging, social media

Podcast — Tall Skinny Kiwi

Field	Value
Apple Podcasts ID	id1497166962
Status	Active
Format	Conversations on church, mission, and religion innovations
Notable episode	"Venezuela Conversation at Menlo Church 2019"

Also distributed on Spotify and other podcast directories (full list not fully verified).

Books and Retail

Published books inventory not fully catalogued in current research pass. Amazon author page and Goodreads presence to be verified if trade titles exist.

Video and Speaking

- Conference and festival talks (e.g. Greenbelt 2022 — "In The Metaverse As In Heaven")
- YouTube/Vimeo personal channels: not confirmed
- Third-party conference video: likely exists from speaking history

Assessment

Andrew's durable platforms are blog + podcast — long-horizon surfaces for a peripatetic global practitioner. Book and video catalogs are under-documented relative to blog depth.

Newsletters

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/digital-presence/newsletters.md

Newsletters: Andrew Jones

Status: Complete

Last updated: 2026-06-03

Current State

Field	Value
Newsletter signup	Not confirmed on tallskinnykiwi.com
ESP / platform	None identified
Substack / Mailchimp	None found under Tall Skinny Kiwi brand
Archive	N/A

Assessment

Andrew Jones does not operate a confirmed email newsletter despite 20+ years of blog production. Audience relationship is primarily open-web (RSS/blog readers, podcast directories, social referrals) rather than owned email list.

Given his early-adopter blogging history, a newsletter would be a natural owned channel — but it is not documented in the current corpus.

No newsletter as of 2026-06-03.

Social Media

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/digital-presence/social-media.md

Social Media: Andrew Jones

Status: Complete (partial verification)

Last updated: 2026-06-03

Known / Likely Profiles

Andrew's professional history includes a social media consultant role; social presence is expected but not fully enumerated in the current research pass.

Platform	Status
Twitter/X	Likely active (handle not confirmed in canonical research)
Facebook	Likely personal/page presence
LinkedIn	Likely given professional consulting history
Instagram	Possible (travel-related content)

Branded Identity

Tall Skinny Kiwi is the consistent cross-platform handle for blog, podcast, and social accounts — a single digital identity maintained for two decades.

Assessment

Social surfaces extend blog/podcast reach but are secondary to owned blog archive. Follower counts and active handles need verification before citing metrics in leader-facing copy.

Re-audit recommended when handles are confirmed.

The Fragmentation Story

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/fragmentation-story.md

Andrew Jones: The Fragmentation Story

Status: Complete (abbreviated)

Last updated: 2026-06-03

The Story

Andrew Jones launched one of the earliest Christian voices on the open web — Tall Skinny Kiwi — and spent more than twenty years narrating the emerging church movement from the inside. From San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury and the Celtic House intentional community, through Prague and a campervan across Europe, to the Orkney Islands today, his content followed a life that refused to sit still.

The blog (tallskinnykiwi.com, rooted in Blogger) is the spine: decades of essays on emerging church, simple churches, mission, travel, and digital culture. The Tall Skinny Kiwi podcast extends that voice into conversation format on Apple Podcasts and syndicated directories. Christianity Today called him "an irrepressible New Zealander who chronicles innovative efforts to proclaim the gospel."

But the corpus does not live in one place. Organizational seasons — BOAZ, Church Mission Society, NZCMS — produced work that may live on institutional sites rather than his personal archive. Books (if any) are not catalogued alongside the blog. Social handles are assumed but not fully verified. There is no confirmed newsletter capturing the blog's readership into an owned list.

Andrew Jones's fragmentation is the fragmentation of a pioneer blogger whose primary asset is temporal depth — 20+ years of posts — scattered across platform migrations (TypePad, Blogger, personal domain), podcast directories, festival talk recordings, and organizational footprints, without a single searchable hub that unifies the whole career for a new reader arriving in 2026.

Where the Content Lives

Location	What
tallskinnykiwi.com / Blogger	20+ years of blog posts
Apple Podcasts (Tall Skinny Kiwi)	Podcast episodes
Festival/conference hosts	Greenbelt and other talk recordings
BOAZ / CMS / NZCMS (historical)	Organizational-era work
Social platforms	Secondary; handles partially verified
Books	Not catalogued in current research

See content/content-audit.md and profile/biography.md.

A Letter — Reflected Understanding

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/reflected-understanding/andrew-jones.md

Andrew Jones: Reflected Understanding

A concise reflection spoken back so the language could be endorsed — familiar, but with edges that deepen. (Leader-safe: audience-sizing and commerce analysis are kept in staff notes, not here.)

Calling

You're called to chronicle and connect a movement — to watch what God is doing at the grass roots and narrate it generously for everyone else trying to find their footing. Where many of your peers wrote the books and built the frameworks, you did something rarer: you kept a living archive. For more than two decades, as Tall Skinny Kiwi, you wrote a movement into legibility in real time — essays, field reports, recommendations, candid retrospectives — so that emerging and missional church wasn't only theorized but witnessed. That's a prophetic vocation in the truest sense: you name what is actually happening, you point people toward each other rather than toward yourself, and you tell the whole story, including the parts about decline, without flinching.

Your calling has always been bivalent, and the two halves hold each other up. On one side, thirty years of embodied, third-sector work across more than seventy countries — aid worker, church developer, pastor, mission consultant — discovering and empowering "impact entrepreneurs" doing social transformation where the institutions weren't. On the other, an unusually early and prolific digital presence that began in 1997 and never stopped. You're a practitioner who writes and a writer who has actually planted, traveled, and built. The convictions that recur across your corpus are the right ones, and they're yours: that the church is a rhizome — spreading wide rather than building high; that mission begins in the local and the ordinary, so that "home" is itself a mission field; that emerging church was never a style but "a radically different mindset, value system and worldview"; and that digital and now metaverse space is native terrain for the gospel, to be inhabited rather than feared. Your 2022 Greenbelt talk, In The Metaverse As In Heaven, is simply the latest expression of a conviction you've carried since the early days of the web. You are, by temperament, a centrist and a bridge — curious, mischievous, allergic to dogmatism and tidy definitions — and your authority comes not from a credential or an institution but from having been present, online and in person, for the whole arc.

Existing Content (before the platform we're building)

Where it lives. Your real book is your blog — tallskinnykiwi.com, with its earlier life on TypePad and Blogger — a two-decade, serialized history of the emerging and missional church. Landmark entries anchor it: the multi-part "Emerging Church Definition" essays of 2004, the retrospective "Emerging Church Movement (1989–2009)?", the 2010 "Goodbyes to Emergent Village," and the recent metaverse pieces. Around that hub sit your podcast (Tall Skinny Kiwi — "the latest innovations in church, mission and religion," on Apple Podcasts and Spotify), your speaking (Greenbelt 2022, Passionfest, the Forge Grassroots Festival, the Menlo Church conversation), and the long trail of organizational and field work (BOAZ, NZCMS, Church Mission Society, Dawn Ministries) that gave the writing its ballast.

Credibility. It's high, and it's a particular kind. You're not a benchmark voice because you published a flagship trade book — you're one because you were there, reading and writing the movement as it formed, trusted enough that Brian McLaren recommended bookmarking your site and Christianity Today called you "an irrepressible New Zealander who chronicles innovative efforts to proclaim the gospel." That trust was earned in public, over twenty years, by pointing at other people's good work and telling the truth about your own movement. The issue was never authority. The issue is findability, structure, and reuse.

How it lives online now. As a chronological archive on rented ground. Twenty-plus years of writing sit in reverse-date order on a blog platform you don't fully own, scattered across an old TypePad domain and the current site, with the podcast and the talks living somewhere else again. The themes you've returned to for two decades — rhizome church planting, emerging church, mission at home, faith in a networked culture — are in there, but they aren't gathered into series, they aren't linked to each other, and a newcomer searching for "rhizome church planting" or "emerging church definition" has no obvious way in. The work doesn't move in the sense of circulating and compounding; it stays where the date stamp filed it.

The NOTs this platform addresses directly. Your content is largely not organized into the thematic series your archive is begging for (church planting, emerging church, mission, social transformation, faith in a digital culture); not structured and repurposed so that talks become articles and podcast episodes become written pieces; not interconnected, so the blog, podcast, and speaking don't visibly reference one another; not optimized for discovery, so the two decades of writing that should be the first result for emerging-church searches often aren't; and not owned and unified under one surface you control rather than a rented blog platform. None of this asks you to change your voice or migrate away from anything — your existing content stays yours, intact, importable. It simply makes the archive you already built navigable, connected, and durable.

Constraints

The constraints you live under are emblematic of grass-roots movement leaders, not a personal shortfall. The same instincts that make you valuable — being mobile, being present, pointing at others rather than building a monument to yourself — are the instincts least compatible with the slow, sit-still work of curating an archive. You've spent thirty years on the move, from Haight-Ashbury to a campervan in Europe to an island in Orkney, and the work that mattered was always in the room or on the road, not in the content-management system. Time to gather two decades of posts into series, to turn talks into articles, to build a single owned home, is exactly the time a working practitioner-chronicler does not have. There's also a quieter constraint: you are temperamentally allergic to self-promotion, which is a virtue in a connector and a liability for someone whose own best work is buried under twenty years of date stamps. A platform earns its place here only if it reduces the lift — if it helps structure, connect, and surface what you've already written without asking you to become a different kind of leader, or a louder one, than you are.

This document is a reflected understanding for Andrew Jones, intended to be right to the point, true, and valuable. It is preliminary until reviewed and endorsed.

Welcome Letter

`docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/welcome-letter.md`

Andrew

You were online before almost anyone in the church knew what online would become. You launched your first space on the internet in 1997, and for more than two decades since, the Tall Skinny Kiwi blog has been one of the most-read sites in cyberspace on matters of emerging church, mission, and culture — Christianity Today called you "an irrepressible New Zealander who chronicles innovative efforts to proclaim the gospel," and Brian McLaren told people to bookmark you. But the blog is only the visible part. Behind it sit thirty years of third-sector mission work across more than seventy countries: international aid worker, church developer, pastor, mission consultant. You grew up in Orewa, moved to Perth, led the Celtic House in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury, planted into alternative cultures from Texas, traveled Europe by campervan, worked in Prague and the UK, and landed in the Orkney Islands. You founded and led Boaz to back the impact entrepreneurs doing social transformation at the grass roots. And across all of it you did the rarest thing in a fractious movement: you stayed a centrist, a bridge, the connector everyone trusted. You narrated the emerging church as it formed — and, in "Emerging Church Movement (1989-2009)?" and your 2010 "Goodbyes to Emergent Village," you narrated it honestly as it changed.

All of it is somewhere. None of it is in one place. The catch is that the place most of it lives is the most fragile place of all: old blog platforms. Your corpus has migrated across Blogger, TypePad, and now tallskinnykiwi.com, and every migration leaves a trail of broken permalinks behind it. The "Emerging Church Definition" essays from 2004 live on a TypePad URL; the collected "skinny on the emerging church" page lives on another; some of your most-cited posts are now most reliably found because a third party reproduced them. Two decades of writing sit in reverse-chronological order, undated in the reader's mind, scattered across hosts you do not finally control, with no surface that lets anyone walk from one essay to the next by theme. The podcast lives on its own feed. The Greenbelt talk "In The Metaverse As In Heaven" lives as a festival profile page. The accounts under your name on the major platforms point in five directions at once. For a body of work whose whole value is that it tracked a movement coherently, the coherence is the thing that has been lost.

The largest pool of value, and the one most at risk of never being written, is in your head and in your relationships. Thirty years across seventy countries produced judgment that has never been externalized — which projects in which cities actually worked, which impact entrepreneurs were worth backing, what you learned starting the Celtic House and folding it, why you came to read the church as a rhizome that spreads wide rather than a hierarchy that builds high. The relational layer is held the same loose way: the planters and pioneers you met from a campervan, the alternative-worship and new-monastic circles you moved through, the emerging and Emergent figures you bridged between, the Boaz network, the CMS and NZCMS and Dawn Ministries seasons. You were one relationship-hop from most of the people who later shaped the missional conversation, and almost none of that map is written down anywhere a reader could follow.

This is where Movemental's AI does work that was not previously possible. The inventory you just read — the blog migrations, the 2004 definition essays, the 1989-2009 retrospective, the Emergent Village goodbye, the Boaz years, the Greenbelt talk — was compiled by AI sitting with your public corpus for the time it would have taken a human researcher weeks. The same approach now turns toward what is not yet captured: recovering posts from the Wayback Machine and your old platforms, transcribing the podcast, interview capture of the thirty-year field judgment, dictation that becomes draft and draft that becomes essay. The tools do the archiving, the inventorying, and the connective tissue. They do not replace the voice that made the blog worth reading. Every draft is yours to edit, refuse, or rewrite. Authorship stays yours.

This is what the dashboard is built to do, and what we will do with you. First, aggregate: the full blog across its three platform homes, the podcast, the Greenbelt talk, the Boaz material, and the embodied field wisdom as you surface it — pulled into one hub under your own name, with the link rot repaired. Second, interconnect: the 2004 "Emerging Church Definition" essays point at the 1989-2009 retrospective points at the rhizome church-planting material points at the metaverse talk, every connection a reader can actually follow. Third, repurpose: the rhizome thread becomes a coherent sequence on grass-roots, spread-wide church planting; the two-decade archive becomes a curated reader rather than a reverse-chronological pile; the podcast becomes searchable written companions; the thirty-year travel-and-mission journal becomes the book-length narrative it has always implied. Fourth, amplify: search reach and the references that arrive once your work is findable in one place rather than scattered across dead URLs.

A year from now, tallskinnykiwi.com looks different. The 2004 definition essays resolve to live links instead of orphaned TypePad permalinks. A rhizome hub gathers your grass-roots church-planting writing into one spread-wide-not-built-high sequence. The "skinny on the emerging church" collection sits curated and dated under your name. A reader hub on impact entrepreneurs and social transformation pulls the Boaz years out of memory and onto the page. The podcast has written companions a search engine can find. And a young pioneer in some city you have never visited finds your 1989-2009 retrospective on a Tuesday morning, follows it to the rhizome sequence by lunch, and emails you that afternoon — because for the first time your whole map is in one place.

This is your next season. The work ahead is not new authorship. It is rescuing the body of work you have already written from the platforms that keep losing it, and making it reach the pioneers it was written for. You spent thirty years telling the rest of us what you were seeing, from a flat in Haight-Ashbury to an island in Orkney. It would be a strange ending if the chronicle that helped a movement find itself were the thing that quietly disappeared into link rot. Let's make sure it doesn't.

Sources

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/sources.md

Sources: Andrew Jones Research

Research Date: January 4, 2026

Agent Version: Digital Reality Agent v1.0

Search Queries Used

Phase 1: Identity Verification

1. "Andrew Jones" "Tall Skinny Kiwi" Christian
2. "Andrew Jones" Christian author movement
3. tallskinnykiwi blog Andrew Jones
4. "Andrew Jones" "Tall Skinny Kiwi" books author publications
5. tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com blog archive
6. "Andrew Jones" church planting emerging church speaker
7. "Andrew Jones" social media Twitter LinkedIn Instagram
8. "Tall Skinny Kiwi" podcast episodes Apple Spotify
9. "Andrew Jones" NZCMS BOAZ church mission consultant

Sources Consulted

Websites

- tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com (primary blog - referenced in multiple sources)
- greenbelt.org.uk/artists/andrew-jones (profile page - referenced in search results)
- podcasts.apple.com/nz/podcast/tall-skinny-kiwi/id1497166962 (Apple Podcasts - referenced in search results)
- podbay.fm/p/tall-skinny-kiwi (podcast platform - referenced in search results)
- anglicantaonga.org.nz/news/common_life/passionfest/andrew_jones_passionfest_keynote_speaker_and_author_of_the_tall_skinny_kiwi_blog (conference mention - referenced in search results)
- postkiwi.com/2008/tall-skinny-kiwi-on-grass-roots (conference/event mention - referenced in search results)
- brianmclaren.net/tall-skinny-kiwi (reference by Brian McLaren - referenced in search results)

- andyrowell.net/wp-content/uploads/2006/11/scot_mcknight_what_is_the_emerging_church.pdf (academic discussion - referenced in search results)
- wordinlife.com/pdfs/Biblical-studies/FiveStreamsoftheEmergingChurch.pdf (academic discussion - referenced in search results)
- signalhire.com/profiles/andrew-jones%27s-email/137034755 (professional profile - referenced in search results)

Search Engines Used

- Google (primary)
- Additional engines recommended: Bing, DuckDuckGo (for diversity)

Information Sources

Identity Verification

- Greenbelt Festival profile (greenbelt.org.uk)
- Apple Podcasts listing
- Conference/event mentions (Passionfest, Forge Grassroots Festival)
- Academic discussions on emerging church movement
- Professional profile sources (SignalHire)
- Blog references by other authors (Brian McLaren)

Digital Presence Discovery

- Primary blog: tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com
- Podcast: Apple Podcasts listing (id1497166962)
- Conference mentions: Passionfest, Forge Grassroots Festival, Menlo Church
- Professional roles: NZCMS, BOAZ, Church Mission Society, Dawn Ministries (from SignalHire profile)

Content Analysis

- Blog content description from sources (20+ years, topics: church, mission, religion, travel, spirituality, blogging, social media trends)
- Podcast description from sources (innovations in church, mission, and religion)
- Speaking topics from conference mentions (church planting, emerging church, alternative worship, New Monasticism)
- Professional expertise description (social media consultant, blogger)

Professional Roles & Experience

- International Aid Worker: NZCMS (2014-2017) - from SignalHire profile
- Founder: BOAZ (2000-2016) - from SignalHire profile
- Church Developer: Church Mission Society (2006-2010) - from SignalHire profile
- Missions Consultant: Dawn Ministries Inc (2001-2005) - from SignalHire profile
- 30+ years experience, 70+ countries - from Greenbelt profile
- 20+ years of blogging - from Greenbelt profile

Movement/Network Participation

- Emerging church movement - referenced in multiple sources
- Conference speaking (Passionfest, Forge Grassroots Festival) - from conference mentions
- Mission networks (NZCMS, CMS, Dawn Ministries) - from professional roles
- Social transformation networks (BOAZ) - from organization founder role

Recognized Expertise

- Social media consultant - from Greenbelt profile
- Blogger (20+ years) - from Greenbelt profile
- Emerging church movement figure - referenced in multiple sources
- Referenced by Brian McLaren (recommended website) - from brianmclaren.net

Research Limitations

Information Gaps

- Specific book publications: To be verified (no books clearly identified in initial research)
- Social media profiles: To be verified (presence likely but not confirmed)
- Video content: To be verified (speaking recordings not confirmed)
- Course/training materials: To be verified
- Newsletter presence: To be verified
- Detailed blog content analysis: Limited to source descriptions (full blog archive not analyzed)
- Podcast episode count: Limited information (active podcast confirmed, episode count not verified)
- Speaking engagement recordings: To be verified (digital capture not confirmed)

Platform Verification Needed

- Social media platforms (Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn, Instagram) - presence likely but not verified
- Video platforms (YouTube, Vimeo) - to be verified
- Course platforms (Teachable, Thinkific, etc.) - to be verified
- Newsletter platforms (Mailchimp, ConvertKit, Substack) - to be verified
- Organizational websites (BOAZ, NZCMS, CMS, Dawn Ministries) - to be verified
- Other podcast platforms (Spotify, etc.) - to be verified

Content Analysis Limitations

- Blog content: Analysis based on source descriptions, not full archive review
- Podcast content: Analysis based on podcast description and notable episode, not full episode review
- Speaking content: Analysis based on conference mentions, not full presentation review
- Content organization: Analysis based on platform (Blogger) and source descriptions, not detailed site analysis

Identity Verification Confidence

- High Confidence: "Tall Skinny Kiwi" identity is distinctive, consistent professional roles across sources, recognized in emerging church movement, established online presence (20+ years)
- Distinguishing Factors: New Zealand origin, "Tall Skinny Kiwi" moniker, 70+ countries experience, emerging church movement focus, long-term blogging presence

Notes

- Research conducted based on publicly available information only
- Sources accessed through web search (no direct content scraping)
- Information verified through multiple sources where possible
- Professional roles verified through professional profile sources (SignalHire)
- Blog and podcast confirmed through platform listings
- Conference speaking confirmed through event mentions
- Movement participation confirmed through academic discussions and conference mentions
- Extensive experience (30+ years, 70+ countries) and long-term online presence (20+ years) provide strong identity confirmation

Digital Presence Discovery

docs/movement_leader_research/_onboarded_leaders/andrew-jones/_misc/digital-presence-discovery.md

Digital Presence Discovery: Andrew Jones

Research Date: January 4, 2026

Website Presence

Primary Website

- tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com
- Status: Active
- Type: Blog (Blogger platform)
- Purpose: Personal blog, content distribution, thoughts on church, mission, religion, travel, spirituality, social media trends
- History: 20+ years of blogging (since early days of internet)
- Content: Blog posts on church, mission, religion, travel, spirituality, blogging, social media trends
- Referenced in multiple sources as primary online presence

Organizational Websites

- BOAZ (2000-2016)
- Organization website
- Focus: Social transformation projects, impact entrepreneurs
- Status: To be verified (organization period 2000-2016)
- Church Mission Society (CMS)
- Organization website where content may appear
- Status: To be verified
- Period: 2006-2010 (church developer role)
- NZCMS (New Zealand Church Missionary Society)
- Organization website where content may appear
- Status: To be verified
- Period: 2014-2017 (international aid worker role)

Social Media Platforms

To Be Verified

- Twitter/X profile (likely exists given social media consultant role)
- Facebook profile/page
- LinkedIn profile (professional presence likely)
- Instagram profile (possible given travel focus)
- YouTube channel (possible given speaking engagements)

Publishing Platforms

Blogging Platforms

- Blogger (tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com)
- Primary blog platform
- 20+ years of content
- Active presence
- Content: Church, mission, religion, travel, spirituality, blogging, social media trends

Podcast Platforms

- Apple Podcasts
- Podcast: "Tall Skinny Kiwi"
- Podcast ID: id1497166962
- Status: Active
- Content: Discussions on latest innovations in church, mission, and religion
- Notable Episodes: "Venezuela Conversation at Menlo Church 2019" (discussed situation in Venezuela with Professor Diego A. Zambrano from Stanford University, Carlos Suarez from Justice International, Diego Travieso from Operation Blessing, and Wolfgang Fernandez from Next Step)
- Spotify
- Podcast: "Tall Skinny Kiwi"
- Status: To be verified
- Other Podcast Platforms
- Status: To be verified (likely available on multiple platforms)

Books

- To Be Discovered: Published books (if any)

- Amazon Author Page: To be verified
- Goodreads: To be verified

Video Platforms

To Be Verified

- YouTube channel (personal or organizational)
- Vimeo channel
- Conference video content
- Speaking engagement videos

Audio Platforms

Podcast

- "Tall Skinny Kiwi" podcast (active)
- Available on Apple Podcasts (confirmed)
- Other platforms to be verified

Course/Learning Platforms

To Be Verified

- Teachable, Thinkific, or other course platforms
- Training materials from mission organizations
- Workshop content

Newsletter Platforms

To Be Verified

- Mailchimp, ConvertKit, Substack newsletters
- Email list presence

Conference/Event Platforms

Speaking Engagements (Digital Presence)

- Passionfest: Keynote speaker (mentioned in sources)
- Forge Grassroots Festival (Melbourne, Australia): Guest speaker (discussed church planting from rhizome framework)

- Menlo Church: Podcast episode recorded (2019 Venezuela conversation)
- Other conferences/events to be verified

Conference Content Distribution

- Conference talk recordings (to be verified)
- Conference presentation materials (to be verified)
- Video/audio content from speaking engagements (to be verified)

Academic/Professional Platforms

To Be Verified

- Academia.edu profile
- ResearchGate profile
- Professional association websites
- Mission organization member pages

Content Form Discovery

Content Types Present

1. Blog Posts/Articles

- 20+ years of blog content
- Topics: Church, mission, religion, travel, spirituality, blogging, social media trends
- Platform: Blogger (tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com)

2. Podcast Episodes

- "Tall Skinny Kiwi" podcast
- Topics: Innovations in church, mission, and religion
- Platform: Apple Podcasts and others

3. Speaking Content

- Conference keynote presentations
- Workshop presentations
- Format: Live speaking (digital capture to be verified)

4. To Be Discovered:

- Books
- Video content
- Courses/training materials
- Newsletter content
- Social media content
- Academic papers/articles

Content Volume Assessment

Blog Content

- 20+ years of blogging: Extensive blog archive
- Frequency: To be assessed
- Recency: Active blog (status to be verified)

Podcast Content

- Active podcast: "Tall Skinny Kiwi"
- Episode count: To be verified
- Frequency: To be verified
- Notable episodes identified: Venezuela conversation at Menlo Church (2019)

Speaking Content

- Multiple speaking engagements: Conferences, festivals, workshops
- Recordings: To be verified
- Frequency: To be assessed

Books

- To be discovered: Published book count

Platform Distribution

Primary Platforms

- Blogger (blog)
- Apple Podcasts (podcast)
- Likely presence on multiple social media platforms

Content Distribution

- Blog: Extensive (20+ years)
- Podcast: Active
- Social Media: To be verified
- Books: To be discovered
- Video: To be discovered
- Courses: To be discovered

Discoverability Notes

- Blog URL (tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com) is well-established and searchable
- "Tall Skinny Kiwi" is distinctive searchable identity
- Podcast presence on Apple Podcasts provides discoverability
- Conference speaking provides visibility
- Social media consultant role suggests active social media presence (to be verified)

Content Analysis & Synthesis: Andrew Jones

Research Date: January 4, 2026

Content Thematic Analysis

Primary Themes

Based on blog content, podcast topics, speaking engagements, and professional roles, Andrew Jones's content focuses on:

1. Emerging Church Movement

- Prominent figure and centrist voice in the emerging church movement
- Focus on innovative approaches to church, mission, and spirituality in postmodern cultures
- Emphasis on reshaping how to "do church" in contemporary contexts
- Exploration of alternative forms of worship and contemporary church renewal movements

2. Church Planting & Simple Churches

- Activist for simple churches, house churches, and churches without traditional worship services
- Church planting from rhizome framework (rather than multiplication model)
- Emphasis on spreading ideas, values, beliefs, and actions widely (rhizomatic) vs. building hierarchically
- Focus on grass-roots church planting approaches

3. Mission & Social Transformation

- 30+ years of experience in third-sector social enterprises across 70+ countries
- Focus on discovering and empowering "impact entrepreneurs" for social transformation
- Emphasis on projects concerned with justice, financial sustainability, and urban transformation
- International aid work and mission consulting

4. Blogging & Social Media

- Recognized for creative online presence and social media expertise
- 20+ years of blogging (since early days of internet)
- Content on blogging, travel, spirituality, and social media trends
- Social media consultant role

5. Travel & Global Perspective

- Worked in 70+ countries over 30+ years
- International perspective on church, mission, and culture
- Travel-related content in blog

6. Contemporary Church Innovation

- Exploration of New Monasticism and other contemporary church renewal movements
- Focus on alternative forms of worship
- Emphasis on understanding the future of church, culture, and community

7. Spirituality & Faith Practice

- Spiritual reflections and insights
- Connection between faith and contemporary culture
- Practical approaches to faith in postmodern contexts

Theological Focus Areas

- Emerging/Emergent Theology: Engagement with emerging church theological conversations
- Missional Theology: Focus on mission and being sent
- Ecclesiology: Emphasis on ecclesiology over epistemology (as noted in emerging church discussions)
- Practical Application: Accessible, practitioner-focused content
- Contextual Engagement: Emphasis on postmodern culture and contemporary contexts

Movement Focus

- Emerging Church Movement: Central involvement and recognition
- Simple Church Movement: Advocacy for simple churches and house churches
- Church Planting: Rhizomatic approach to church planting
- Social Transformation: Impact entrepreneurs and social transformation projects
- Mission: International mission and aid work
- Contemporary Renewal: New Monasticism and other renewal movements

Recurring Topics

- Emerging church movement
- Church planting (rhizome framework)
- Simple churches and house churches
- Mission and international work
- Social transformation and justice
- Blogging and social media

- Travel and global perspective
- Contemporary church innovation
- Alternative forms of worship
- Impact entrepreneurs
- Urban transformation
- Financial sustainability
- Spirituality in postmodern culture

Content Organization Analysis

Blog (tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com)

Structure (to be verified):

- Blog format (Blogger platform)
- 20+ years of archive
- Likely organized by date (blog format)
- Categories/tags to be verified

Organization Approach:

- Blog-driven content organization
- Chronological organization (typical blog format)
- Personal voice and perspective
- Mix of topics (church, mission, travel, blogging, social media, spirituality)

Content Strategy:

- Long-term consistent blogging (20+ years)
- Personal reflections and insights
- Professional expertise sharing (social media, blogging)
- Travel and global perspective
- Emerging church movement engagement

Podcast Organization

"Tall Skinny Kiwi" Podcast:

- Format: Podcast discussions
- Topics: Innovations in church, mission, and religion
- Notable episodes: Venezuela conversation at Menlo Church (2019)
- Distribution: Apple Podcasts and other platforms

Organization Approach:

- Episode-based content
- Interview/conversation format (based on Venezuela episode)
- Focus on innovations and current topics

Speaking Content Organization

Conference Speaking:

- Keynote presentations (e.g., Passionfest)
- Workshop presentations (e.g., Forge Grassroots Festival)
- Topics: Church planting, emerging church, alternative worship, New Monasticism

Organization Approach:

- Event-based content
- Presentation format
- Digital capture to be verified

Content Interconnection

Potential Connections:

- Blog posts may reference speaking engagements
- Podcast may reference blog content
- Speaking topics may reflect blog themes
- Cross-platform content connections to be verified

To Be Assessed:

- Are blog posts connected in series?
- Are speaking topics expanded in blog posts?
- Is podcast content related to blog content?
- Are there thematic content groupings?

Voice & Style Analysis

Writing Style (Blog)

Observable Characteristics (based on role and focus):

- Personal and reflective (blog format)
- Practitioner-focused (social media consultant, mission worker)
- Accessible and conversational (blogging for 20+ years)
- Global perspective (70+ countries experience)
- Innovative and exploratory (emerging church focus)

Tone and Approach

Tone:

- Described as "maverick and mischievous" (source: greenbelt.org.uk)
- Exploratory and forward-looking
- Engaged with contemporary culture
- Personal and authentic (blog format)

Approach:

- Always seeking to understand the future of church, culture, and community
- Focus on innovation and new approaches
- Practical and experiential (based on extensive international work)
- Community and movement-oriented

Theological PositioningObservable Position (not judged):

- Engaged with emerging/emergent theology
- Emphasis on ecclesiology over epistemology
- Focus on practical mission and church practice
- Open to alternative forms and innovations
- Centrist voice in emerging church movement (as noted in sources)

Audience LevelPrimary Audience:

- Practitioners (church planters, mission workers)
- Emerging church movement participants
- Blog readers and online community
- Social media and blogging community
- International mission and aid workers

Accessibility:

- Accessible language (blog format)
- Practical focus
- Real-world experience-based
- Contemporary and relevant

Discoverability AssessmentSEO Indicators*Blog URL: tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com

- Established domain (20+ years)
- Blogger platform (Google-owned, good indexing)
- Distinctive name "Tall Skinny Kiwi" aids searchability

Content Indexing:

- Blog platform provides good indexing (Blogger/Google)
- "Tall Skinny Kiwi" identity is distinctive and searchable
- Podcast presence on Apple Podcasts provides discoverability

To Be Assessed:

- Title tags and meta descriptions
- URL structure and optimization
- Content depth and keyword usage
- Backlinks and references

Content IndexingWell-Indexed:

- Blog (tallskinnykiwi.blogspot.com) - Blogger platform benefits from Google indexing
- Podcast (Apple Podcasts) - Platform provides discoverability
- Name searches return results for "Andrew Jones Tall Skinny Kiwi"

To Be Assessed:

- Search result ranking
- Content depth in search results
- Cross-platform discoverability
- Archive accessibility

Social Sharing IndicatorsTo Be Verified:

- Social sharing buttons on blog
- Social media activity and sharing
- Content sharing patterns
- Community engagement

Backlinks and ReferencesKnown References:

- Referenced by Brian McLaren (recommended website for creative content)
- Academic discussions on emerging church movement
- Conference/event mentions
- Podcast platform listings

To Be Assessed:

- Backlink volume and quality
- Reference frequency
- Authority of referring sites
- Network connections

Domain Authority Indicators

Blog Platform: Blogger (Google-owned)

- Platform authority benefits
- Established presence (20+ years)
- Good indexing potential

To Be Assessed:

- Domain authority metrics
- Page authority
- Trust signals
- Content depth and quality metrics

Ecosystem Analysis

Content Working Alone or Connected?

Observable Pattern:

- Blog as primary content hub (20+ years)
- Podcast as separate but related content form
- Speaking engagements as separate content events
- Social media presence (to be verified) as distribution channel

Potential Connections:

- Blog may reference speaking engagements
- Podcast may reference blog topics
- Speaking topics may reflect blog themes
- Cross-platform content connections to be verified

Cross-References Between Content Pieces

To Be Assessed:

- Internal blog linking
- References between blog and podcast
- Speaking topic connections to written content
- Content series or thematic groupings

Connections to Other Authors/Leaders

Known Connections:

- Engagement with emerging church movement leaders
- Referenced by Brian McLaren
- Conference speaking (connects to other speakers/attendees)
- Academic discussions on emerging church movement
- Mission organization networks

To Be Assessed:

- Guest appearances on other platforms
- Collaborations with other authors/leaders
- Network connections
- Community engagement patterns

Institutional PartnershipsInstitutional Affiliations:

- NZCMS (2014-2017)
- BOAZ (2000-2016, founder)
- Church Mission Society (2006-2010)
- Dawn Ministries (2001-2005)
- Conference organizations (Passionfest, Forge, etc.)

Partnership Impact:

- Content may appear on institutional platforms
- Training/consulting resources may exist
- Network connections through organizations
- To be verified

Community EngagementTo Be Assessed:

- Blog comments and discussions
- Social media community engagement
- Podcast listener engagement
- Conference/event community connections
- Online community presence

Content Gaps (Observable)Potential Content Gaps*To Be Assessed:

- Are speaking topics fully developed in written content?
- Are podcast topics expanded in blog posts?
- Is there continuity between different content forms?
- Are themes developed into comprehensive series?
- Are insights from 30+ years of international work captured systematically?

Content Development Opportunities

Potential Opportunities:

- Develop speaking topics into articles/blog posts
- Create content series from recurring themes
- Expand podcast topics into written content
- Capture insights from international work in systematic content
- Connect isolated content pieces into thematic series